#C: "Drinking water quality?" Surely this is a joke. Most of the ground water in town, if not all of the water, has so much hardness, iron and even sulfur it doesn't come close to "drinking water." Without some sort of residential water treatment I doubt very few folks in town are actually drinking their well water. How can you rate "drinking water quality" as important when none of the available ground water would currently meet drinking water standards? i

Work with farmers to create policies to help working farms Yes

Promote regional collaboration and planning Yes

Establish and enforce zoning, subdivision and land use regulations Yes

Establish pollution guidelines for commercial and industrial uses Yes

What other measures could the Town take to protect open space and the environment? Enforcement of zoning laws needs to be increased. Need to educate farmers how to preserve & restore soil health for more local food production using farming methods that do not pollute the water & soils. GMO Roundup Ready crops require use of toxic Roundup (Glyphosate) which pollutes our fragile (karst) drinking water supply.
